

JULIET HAS A GUN

Water

Verse:

Oh, heavy weight, that forced me down on my knees,
this dreadful weight, that locked my heart and I ate the keys,
I can't pretend no more, no more.
This iron tongue, that made me shiver inside,
It sealed my lung, and started to contract, what was right
I can't pretend no more, no more.

Chorus:

Then I feel the emotion fly back into me.
I revive on the inside and there's love watering me, watering me.

Verse:

Oh, heavy guilt, that once has broken my back,
This dreadful guilt, that hold me back, I've lost my track,
I won't pretend no more, no more.
Your heavy eyes, this rage has traveled so far,
These dreadful eyes, I realize right how you are,
I won't pretend no more, no more
